

TEN MILE HOUSE

re-est. 2014

In 1836, Major Edward H. Mulford established the original Ten Mile House combining a tavern, post office, inn and courthouse. Ten Mile House served as the social and economic center of the community now known as the City of Evanston. 178 years later, Ten Mile House restaurant re-establishes the area's first public gathering point and continues the tradition of hospitality. Neighbors and area visitors alike are welcome to enjoy our thoughtful comfort food in a vibrant, welcoming setting just steps from Northwestern University. Ten Mile House is an ideal venue for a variety of experiences, including family-friendly dining, game day gatherings, after-work get-togethers, a casual night out, and more!
